

Are members realising the benefits of responsibility for self-managed housing?

Could your democratic processes be improved?

Are your management processes clear to all members?

Introducing...

“Excellence in Housing Co-operative Governance”

A training day to develop a better understanding of governance in your co-op.

This training day examines how housing co-op members can develop effective and efficient light governance providing a better ability to manage their homes. Covers:

- Why co-ops should pay attention to governance
- Key attributes of good governance
- Separating out management and governance
- Improving meeting effectiveness
- Planning to improve governance

Co-operative Assistance Network Limited (CAN) has developed this training day to meet the needs of all housing co-operatives ranging from small start-up collectives through to large well established Committee managed co-operatives.

We use a variety of exercises and presentations to provide co-op members with an understanding of how good governance can work for them. Proven tips and tricks help identify and prioritise areas for development.

Designed by a team with over 20 years combined experience of membership and management of housing co-operatives and over 30 years experience of providing advice and training to the co-operative movement.

What people have said about CAN training:

“Most effective training ever attended. Training delivery was excellent as trainer really delivered what the group wanted”

“Very helpful. Put clarity on even the most basic things I hadn't thought of.”
